DEDICATION

This book is fondly dedicated to my husband
Robert Clifton Foskett
without whose patience, support, and hours of travel, would not have made this book possible.

FOREWORD

My interest in Genealogy stemmed from my desire to trace the genetic eye condition from which my husband suffers, known as Retinitis Pigmentosa. In trying to trace this disease, it was necessary to trace the families in an effort to locate this condition in previous generations.

Although tracing the families has been a very enjoyable task, as well as a learning experience, research has proven that the disease is not from this Foskett line, but is transmitted by the maternal side in this case. This research has, however, enlightened my husband and the children about their forbears.

To my knowledge, the material presented in this line is as accurate as the research material and records available and found could make it. There is, without a doubt, other material to be found and I sincerely hope that those who continue to search out the descendants of John and Elizabeth (Leach) Fosket will add to and/or correct with proof any doubts or errors that may exist.

I have tried, where positive proof is not available, to clarify the circumstantial evidence and theory and sincerely hope that proof may be found to prove these missing links.

I have also traced most of the lines of the wives back to their original ancestors. The information presented herein on the family names has been taken from printed genealogies or histories. Not all the material has been proven by vital records or other documentation, but it is believed to be correct as far as it goes. Where information has not been available, it is so stated. If there are errors or other information that could be added, I would appreciate your cooperation so that they may be noted in future updated editions.

"THANK YOU"

I wish to extend my sincere thanks to the many librarians throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the State of Florida, the Researchers at the State Archives of Massachusetts, the Library of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in St. Petersburg, Florida, and the many people who have responded to my queries from throughout the United States.

A special thanks to the wonderful staff of the New England Historic Genealogical Society for their help and encouragement, especially Dr. Ralph Crandall, David Dearborn, and Gary Roberts. Without the encouragement, advice, assistance, and support of this wonderful staff, this book would not have been possible.

THE IMMIGRANT

THE IMMIGRANT - GENERATION 1

JOHN FOSKET

John Fosket, the ancestor of the greater part of the Foskett family in America, was born in England around the year 1636. Where he was born and the exact date of immigration is unknown, but he came to Charlestown, Massachusetts in 1658. He served as a soldier in King Phillips War under Captain Joseph Sill in 1675/76. In 1677, he purchased a homestead in Charlestown from Samuel Phipps. Subsequently, he purchased several other parcels of land.

John Fosket's first wife was Elizabeth Leach, daughter of Robert and Mary Leach of Charlestown, Massachusetts. Elizabeth was baptized and admitted to the church in 1673 and died January 31, 1682/83. (see Leach Genealogy.)

His second marriage was to Hannah (Johnson) Liscomb, daughter of Samuel and Mary Johnson of Boston, Massachusetts and widow of John Liscomb. She had two sons from her previous marriage named Eleazer and John Liscomb, who are mentioned in John Fosket's will. There were no children of this marriage.

In his will, John mentions that he has already done for his son Thomas and that Thomas was left an inheritance by his grandfather, Robert Leach (see will of Robert Leach, Suffox County), and so he received five shillings. The remainder of his estate in houses, lands, cattle, household goods, and other property was left to his second wife, Hannah, for bringing up his four younger children. He bequeathed to Joshua, Elizabeth, and Mary five pounds apiece. To John and Eleazer Liscomb, he left fifty shillings apiece.

LEACH FAMILY LINE

The immigrant ancestor in New England, Lawrence Leach, came to Salem, Massachusetts as part of the Massachusetts Bay Company in 1629. His wife, Elizabeth, as well as some of his children, apparently accompanied him.

Lawrence was chosen as one of seven men to manage the public affairs of Salem. He also served on the jury for the trial of the first capital case that was heard in Massachusetts. He was a farmer and a miller, in addition to owning an iron foundry with his brother John. He died at the age of 82 in Beverly, Massachusetts on June 24, 1662. He mentions Elizabeth in his will. She died in 1672.

GENERATION 2

THREE SONS - GENERATION 2

THOMAS FOSKET

Thomas, oldest son of John[1] and Elizabeth (Leach) Fosket, was born about 1660 in Charlestown, Massachusetts. He married Miriam Cleveland, daughter of Moses[1] and Ann (Winn) Cleveland, on December 13, 1683 (see Cleveland Genealogy.) He died April 13, 1694, leaving his estate to his wife.

Children of this marriage:

i.	Thomas	b. 13 Jan 1684/85 d. 26 Feb 1684/85

Miriam (Cleveland) Fosket was born in Woburn, Massachusetts July 10, 1659 and died in Charlestown, Massachusetts on August 31, 1745. There is a record of she and her son, John[3], selling property in 1714/15, but no record of the son thereafter. At the time of her death, the estate of Miriam (Cleveland) Fosket was administered by her sons-in-law Mathew Leeky and Thomas Powers. Although no positive record was found of the marriage of son John[3], or of his death, this leads one to believe that he died prior to his mother, who passed away in 1745.

CLEVELAND FAMILY LINE

Moses Cleveland the ancestor of all the Clevelands of New England was from Ipswich, Suffolk County, England. He was born about 1624, arrived in America in 1635 and died at Woburn, Massachusetts on January 9, 1701/02. He married Ann Winn on September 26, 1648. She died around the year of 1682.

His first marriage was to Mercy Goodwin on March 27, 1700. Mercy, the daughter of Christopher and Joanna (Long) Johnson Goodwin was born January 6, 1680. She died February 26, 1714 in Charlestown.

Christopher[2] Goodwin, the second son of Christoper[1] Goodwin and his wife Mary, was also a mason by trade. His first marriage was to Mary Crouch on May 11, 1673. Mary died in July of 1678 at the age of 25. His second marriage was to Joanna Johnson.

Robert's second marriage was to Suzannah Whitney on November 1, 1715 in Charlestown, Massachusetts. Following this marriage, Robert was found to be living in Lexington in 1718, then in Harvard about 1741. He is also found in the records of Lancaster, Massachusetts.

Children of this marriage:

i.	Joshua	b.	5 Apr 1717

No records have been discovered as to when Robert or his wife died. The name in the Berlin, Massachusetts area was spelled Fosgate, and the descendants still use that spelling today.

JONATHAN FOSKET

Jonathan, the seventh child of John[1] and Elizabeth (Leach) Fosket, was born in Charlestown, Massachusetts October 26, 1674. He married Mary Holden on February 9, 1702/03. Mary, the daughter of Justian and Mary Holden of Groton, Massachusetts, was born May 20, 1680.

	m.	James Russell of Lexington
	int.	16 Oct 1733

An article in the American Genealogist compiled by a Dr. Claude W. Barlow of Clark University, also places in this family Ebenezer Foskett born around the year of 1712 and married Susanna Richardson November 16, 1738, and Rachel, who married John Carter of Woburn. Wilton F. Bucknam, whose manuscript is in the New England Historic Genealogical Society, also makes this connection, and the Holden Genealogy does credit Rachel to this Fosket family.

Since each of the above named sons of John[1] Fosket each had a son John, and all were born within a short period of time of one another, it has been a problem to decide which son John married Elizabeth Tufts of Medford, Massachusetts. However, all indications point to the son of Jonathan and Mary (Holden) Fosket. Also, other research points to the fact that this same John and Ebenezer would have to be brothers (see Daniel Foskett, Generation 5).

HOLDEN FAMILY LINE

Richard Holden was born in England in the year 1609 and died March 1, 1695/96 at Groton, Massachusetts. He married Martha Fosdick around 1640/41. Martha was born in England, the daughter of Stephen Fosdick of Charlestown, and died December 6, 1681 at Watertown.

Children of this marriage:

i. Stephen

ii. Justinian b. 1644

Justinian Holden, second son of Richard[1] and Martha (Fosdick) Holden, was born 1644 at Watertown or Cambridge and died around 1699. He married Mary (---), who died May 15, 1691, at Woburn, Massachusetts.

Elizabeth Tufts was born on July 31, 1658 in Beverly, Massachusetts. No record of her death has been found, but she died after 1781. One Tufts Genealogy shows Elizabeth, daughter of James and Hannah (Woodman) Tufts, marrying a John Fosdick. This is an error or misprint. (see Vital Records of Medford and The First Unitarian Church Records of Medford.)

John left no will, but his estate was divided by the Agreement of Heirs. (see Worcester County Records, Book 82, p. 572.)

Abigail Jones, the daughter of William[4] and Sarah (Locke) Jones, was born in Lunenburg, Massachusetts on April 18, 1740 (see Jones Genealogy). She died May 5, 1809 in Westminster, Massachusetts.

John Jr. was an active member of the Baptist Society, serving as a Deacon in the church. He was elected clerk of the Church and held this position for fifty-three years. A stained glass window can be found in the little Baptist Church in Westminster, dedicated to the memory of Abigail and John Fosket, Jr.

A shoemaker by trade, Deacon Fosket had a small shop in Westminster where he did custom work. He also had a farm.

In his will, John Jr. provided well for his wife and mentions sons James, Samuel, Joel, Bethuel, and Daniel. Daniel served as executor of the estate after his father died on March 31, 1796 in Westminster, Massachusetts. The death certificates for John Jr. and Abigail did not indicate the causes of their deaths.

John Fosket, Jr. was a very civic minded resident of Westminster as is disclosed in the History of Westminster, MA and served as a patriot in the Revolutionary War and on a Committee of Correspondence.

JONES FAMILY LINE

Lewis[1] Jones, the ancestor of this line, was born in England and later settled in Watertown, Massachusetts, where he died in April of 1684. His will mentions a wife named Anna (Stone) who was from Roxbury, Massachusetts. Anna was born around 1602 and married Lewis in 1640. The will also mentions sons Shubael, Josiah, and daughter Lydia. Anna died in 1680.

GEORGE THE SECOND

George Clifton[8] Foskett, the second child of George Boardman[7] and Mary Brown (Hobbs) Foskett, was born in Gardner, Massachusetts on September 14, 1865. Apparently he did not wish to be confused with his father so he reversed his names and was thereafter known as Clifton George Foskett. He married Nellie Gertrude Walker on September 16, 1886. She was the daughter of Luther Barbour and Marion Exorissa (Stickney) Walker.

Nellie Gertrude (Walker) Foskett was born in Fitchburg, Massachusetts March 13, 1870. Her father, Luther Barbour Walker, was a chairmaker. Being a devout member of the Park Avenue Methodist Church in Worcester, Nellie was a devoted wife and mother who worked very hard to raise her family after her husband Clifton was disabled with a paralysis. Nellie died in Worcester January 26, 1949 of a heart condition.

The family story is told that Clifton courted Nellie in the rear of the church. At the time of their marriage, he was 21 years old and she was 16. Following their marriage, they lived in Fitchburg, Massachusetts, where in 1892 Clifton served on the Fitchburg Police Force. Prior to the birth of their third child, they moved to Worcester where he took the position of foreman with the Street Car Lines. Later, he was employed as an electrician.

The cause of death was cardiovascular renal disease and general arteriosclerosis.
